Early Literacy Skills

Story

Tell little stories to your baby. This will foster the narrative skills your child will need later for reading, and eventually, for writing.

Sounds

Sing songs, play games with words, and share rhymes. This will foster the phonological awareness necessary to prepare for reading, speech, and language.

Books

Find simple books and share them often. A soothing routine that includes books fosters print motivation.

Direction

Hold a book and pat the page as you read. This makes a connection for baby that leads to print awareness.

Words

Say the names of everyday things when you are with your baby and describe them. This develops vocabulary, which the child needs to speak, and later, to read.

Letters

Draw letters on your baby's tummy as you talk to him. Make a game of counting numbers out on fingers, toes, and other things. Both are considered letter knowledge, which a child needs as a building block to reading.

Literacy Development

What you can do:

Talk to your baby. Baby is always listening.

Read to your baby and vary your voice as you read. Pat the book to make the connection for your baby.

Sing to your baby and play music.

Cuddle and hold your baby. Look into your baby's eyes.

Play with your baby.

Praise your baby and give lots of loving attention. Respond to your baby's cues.

Books for Babies

Board books
Soft vinyl books for the bath

Discipline is never appropriate for infants since they have no control over their actions.

The process of brain development for reading starts before birth through quiet talking and singing to your baby.

It continues after birth through touch, love, eye contact, one-on-one interaction and repetition.

The ritual of talking together and sharing books starts early.

Learning to read comes later.
